A Tonic

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE.

A most excellent and agreeable tonic and appetizer. It nourishes and invigorates the tired brain and body, imparts renewed energy and vitality and enlivens the functions.

Dr. Ephraim Bateman, CEDARVILLE, N. J., says: "I have used it for several years, not only in my practice, but in my own individual case, and consider it under all circumstances one of the best nerve tonics that we possess. For mental exhaustion or overwork it gives renewed strength and vigor to the entire system."

PRINTED AT THE COURIER OFFICE, ANN ARBOR.

THE next number of the CHRONICLE-ARGONAUT will be issued April 25th. Next week begins the spring vacation of ten days. These few days of rest will afford all a short breathing spell in which to recuperate for the final two month's work. Short vacations are a source of much enjoyment and profit to the hard-working student, and we are all glad to take advantage of the recess beginning next week.

THIS has truly been a week of social activity, of entertaining and of being entertained. The festivities of the season have been opened in a gay and befitting manner. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the Junior Hop was a most enjoyable affair, and a complete success in every particular. There were many guests from out of town, and all were unanimous in pronouncing the party one of the pleasantest they had ever attended. The management and various committees on the arrangements are to be congratulated on the success of their undertaking.

THE Castalian will make its appearance next Wednesday, and we venture to say that it will meet with a satisfactory reception. Indeed it is one of the best publications ever issued by the students of the University. The board of editors have been working hard for its success, and have spared neither labor or money in their undertaking. Some of the features of the book are particularly unique and well deserving of praise, while others belong rather to the commonplace of a college publication. The Castalian is certainly a book of which the class of '91 may well be proud. The editors are to be congratulated upon their success.

CHICAGO has come nobly to the front and given us a great lift on the gym. fund. We trust that we may be pardoned for our hasty words concerning the lack of interest of those alumni in their alma mater. It is true that we have been waiting long for some response from the large numbers of western alumni, and were almost on the point of giving up hope altogether. But now Chicago has thrown a new light upon the subject of a gymnasium, and soon we may expect to look with our own eyes upon a real gymnasium at the University of Michigan. Now let other of our western cities follow Chicago's good example, and fall in line with a big subscription for the Waterman Gymnasium.

A COMPARISON of this year's calendar of the U. of M. with that of last year shows the marked progress this University is making, both in the number of students and in the excellence of the courses of study. A University of nearly 2,500 students with nearly 600 hours of instruction per week in the literary department alone, is truly one of the greatest Universities in the world. Our laboratories are among the largest and best equipped in the United States. Our library with its advantages for seminary work is one of which we may well be proud. Many valuable books have been added to it within the past year, and new additions are constantly being made. The work in all of the professional departments has been raised to a higher standard and, notwithstanding, the attendance has steadily increased. The new hospitals will furnish the needed facilities for one medical college, and the dental operating rooms will be moved to larger and more convenient quarters. Considering these points and many others, not forgetting our promising athletic outlook, the University has indeed made rapid and thorough advancement in its work during the past year.

WE know that every alumnus is always interested in alumni personals, and we desire to make our "personal" column one that is devoted more to the interests of U. of M. graduates. An alumnus sent us this week several good alumni personals, and remarked that alumni notes were generally dry reading for the undergraduate, but that the alumnus would rather read a column of them than all the "literary articles" that could be published in a year. Now we ask as a slight favor of every alumnus reader of this paper that he will send us any item that would be interest to the alumni. Everyone knows something of one or more graduates of the U. of M., and if each one will help us we will promise an interesting list of alumni personals.

OUR esteemed contemporary the U. of M. Daily has recently issued a circular letter, inviting the leading college journals west of the Alleghanies to send representatives to a convention for the purpose of forming a Press Association. This is a move in the right direction, and the Daily is to be commended for taking the initiative in an enterprise, which if successful, will be of great value to the journals concerned. There are already two inter-collegiate press associations, the New England and the Central. These have been successful, and there is no reason why there should not a Western association of the same character. The advantages of such an organization to the editors, and through them to the colleges which they represent would be an ample reward for the time and money expended.

Henry Wade Rogers gave his last lecture in the law department on Wednesday.

The Palladium Prizes.

The prizes of the Palladium board have been awarded. For full page cut, the first prize was given to C. A. Traver, and the second to Carl K. Friedman. F. N. Scott received first prize for the song, and J. R. Angell second. For the poem I. K. Friedman received first prize, and J. R. Angell second. The judges were Profs. Walter, Kelsey and Stanley.

The Palladium this year is being printed in Buffalo, and promises to be an elegant publication. It will make its appearance rather late, however, probably not before the last of next month.

The Amherst Glee Club.

The Amherst Glee and Banjo clubs, under the auspices of our own clubs, will give their first concert in Ann Arbor since 1884, in University Hall, Tuesday evening, April 7th. Tickets may be procured at Sheehan's, or from any member of the U. of M. Glee or Banjo club.

Mr. Crane, U. of M. '88, a former member of our club has heard all the Eastern clubs this year, and confirms the press in asserting the Amherst boys are superior to all the others.

We should give them a full house and show our Eastern brethren we can appreciate the excellent programme they are sure to give us. Arrangements have been made with Hangsterfer whereby the visitors will be banqueted by the U. of M. clubs after the concert.

The Castalian.

The advance sheets of the Castalian, the annual publication of the Independents of the Senior class, have been received. It is a book of over 200 pages exclusive of the advertisements, and reflects great credit upon the management, both as to the amount and kind of material contained. The cover is of two shades of green with old gold lettering and ornamentations. The typographical work and artistic make up combine to render it a most attractive publication. Probably one of the most noteworthy features is the number of cuts, which are appropriate and contribute much to the success of the book.

The frontispiece is an excellent photo-gravure of the late Dr. Winchell, of whom President Angell contributes a short biographical sketch. There are also short sketches of the lives of Dr. Adams by Professor Thomas, Dr. Dewey by Dr. Scott, Prof. Knowlton by Prof. McLaughlin, Prof. Wells by Prof. Knowlton. All these are accompanied by photo-engravings.

Prof. D'Ooge has written two articles, one entitled "The Guilds and Theological Schools," and the other on Dr. Tappan, the first president of the University of Michigan.

The prize story by Miss Ethel Fountain, '91, entitled "A Winter Night's Tale" is the recital of a weird experience of a young man traveling in Russia. It is ably written and shows marked ability. The prize song is by F. N. Scott and sustains his reputation as a song writer. This song will form a valuable addition to the present collection of distinctive U. of M. songs. The air is the well-known "Glory Hallelujah."

Mrs. Elsie Jones Cooley received the first prize for the poem, which is a short ode presenting a comparison of Day and Night and exhibits much true poetic feeling.

E L. Miller, '90, has contributed many poems, several of which received honorable mention.

"Lectures vs. Recitations," a symposium by several professors, an article entitled "Why Are We Weak in Athletics" by F. B. Tibbals, a humorous sketch by P. B. Herring, entitled "Dick Dodd's Correspondent," together with several poetical contributions complete the bulk of the literary matter.

The editorials are few in number and to the point. The leader is a summary of the many reforms and innovations inaugurated by the class of '91.

The list of college organizations is complete, and we believe that no organization in which the students take an active part is omitted. There is a short historical and descriptive sketch of each university organization together with a list of its officers. There are excellent cuts of the foot-ball eleven, the base-ball nine, and the Glee club in Oxford cap and gown.

Representations of the three most prominent athletes in college appear on one page, which from an artistic point of view, to say the least, do not flatter the gentlemen in question.

The "grind" editor is to be congratulated for the happy way in which he has conducted his department. Quality rather than quantity seems to have been his motto. He has chosen for his victims a select company of prominent characters, using as his weapons prose quotations, poetical gems and graphic illustrations.

Another feature which is to be commended is the directory of students interspersed among the advertisements. Whether portions of this directory are intended as grinds or are simply typographical errors we have been unable to determine.

The goodly array of advertisements shows that the business managers have done their part towards the success of the book.

The Castalian will be placed on sale next Wednesday in the Main Hall and at the various book stores at the usual price of 75 cents. No one should fail to secure this souvenir of college life and compendium of information.

Herbert M. Frost.

Resolutions of the Students' Christian Association.

We, the members of the Students' Christian Association of the University of Michigan, are filled with heartfelt sorrow at the death of our beloved Christian brother, Herbert N. Frost.

His modest unassuming manner and his sterling Christian virtues commanded the respect and esteem of all who knew him. His fidelity to truth, his faithfulness in every duty, and his purity of character, made his influence ever felt on the side of right.

We desire to express our thorough appreciation of his true life and of his active work in our association. To the mother, brother and relatives, we extend our sincere sympathy in this hour of bereavement. We can only commend them and all friends to Him who doeth all things well, and who has left us the blessed assurance that, "All things work together for good, to them that love God, to them that are called according to his purpose."

The Old Boys in Chicago.

MICHIGAN ALUMNI BANQUET IN THE WORLD'S FAIR CITY.

Special Correspondence.

Nearly a hundred men turned out to the Banquet hall of Kinsley, the Chicago Delmonico, last Tuesday night, to sing the songs and yell the yells of Michigan.

There was President "Doc." Lewis, with a voice full of Chicago fog, due to his journey through the rain of the night before on an errand that brought to one proud alumnus a future candidate for Michigan honors. There was Dr. Edmund Andrews, of the class of '49, brimming with stories of the old days. In one corner Ed. Noonan, '83, now State Senator, and of the famous 101 who stood out for the democracy of Springfield, was stroking his raven locks a la mansarde, and chatting with Bob McMurdy, '80, the newly elected President of the Hamilton Club, Chicago's brightest of the young republican organizations. The cherubic face of I. Giles Lewis, and the classically serious countenance of C. S. Darrow, lent sunshine and dignity to the affair. Sam. Hawley and his Grosse Pointe stories were not lacking. Handsome Harry Hammer, with his hair silvered with the winters gone since '65, Harry Forbes, as young as in the days before he married; stately Claus Claussen, courtly Sidney Eastman, deliberate Billy Washburn, and above them all benignant "Prex," like the star of morning rising behind a sea of white linen and choice crockery, made a Michigan man feel somehow in the old time way of shady streets and rushes in the postoffice.

When Fred Job had climbed into the gallery and subdued Valisi and his troubadours, who were playing the yellow and the blue on mandolins, the alumni came to order and voted $500 from the general fund for the gymnasium by way of a starter. Then Jack Hibbard started a subscription paper down the line, and how much more was raised and will be raised here in Chicago you shall know next week. It was voted, also, that the president and directors of the association should be espousors for the ball team and the glee club once a year, and Sam Hawley fished out a bunch of tickets from the tails of his claw-hammer, and began disposing of them on the spot for the concert of the boys at Central Music Hall the 11th inst.

After this the chair appointed McAndrew, Claussen and Tibbets, a committee to report at next meeting on the entertainment of yellow and blue men at the world's fair; after which Job let Valisi loose again, and in came the dinner, dish after dish most elaborately prepared.

This matter was handled and demolished by the following gentlemen:

When these had all dipped their fingers into the blue glassware and dried them upon the yellow napkins, and the windows of the banquet hall had been shaken with "Bull Dog on the Bank," and the revised edition of the Michigan yell, someone turned on a star of various colored electric lights over the toast-master's head and he arose to the occasion.

"Gentlemen," said he, "fellow alumni of the Star of the West, you are to be congratulated on the unparalleled success of the University to which you belong. Its course has been unique, unusual, successful. To one man in particular, whose hand has been at the helm for twenty years, are we most happy to do honor. I take pleasure in presenting Dr. James B. Angell, President of the University."

Dr. Angell's style, I need not say, is singularly fascinating; there's an ease and melody about it remarkable. "I am surprised," said he, "to see so many here to-night. I had supposed that everyone in Chicago had the grippe or was running for the mayorship. I suppose the first is got more easily than the second." He detailed, what everyone was anxious to hear, the great growth of the departments at Ann Arbor and the needs of the University.

"Last June Michigan graduated the largest class ever graduated at any American university—547. This year in the collegiate department alone about 550 new students have applied for admission and 498 have been actually received. The total attendance in the University is larger than ever known in any American university, and larger than that in several renowned German universities. It is 2,420. Among them are students from every state in the Union except South Carolina, Alabama and Louisiana, from some of the Territories, and from the following foreign states: Ontario, New Brunswick, England, Japan, Porto Rico, Mexico, Costa Rica, Bulgaria, Ireland, Sweden, Turkey, Syria. Where will one find a more cosmopolitan institution? They come from all parts of the earth because they find here the education they need. It is an education itself to live in such a community of students.

"You will be interested to know that Illinois sends 282 students, of whom 193 are in the collegiate department. A very large portion of these are from Chicago and vicinity. Ohio sends 205; Indiana, 183; Pennsylvania, 84; New York, 83; Iowa, 75; even far-off California sends 30; Minnesota, 28; Wisconsin, 27.

"The rise and growth of state universities forms one of the most striking features in the history of American education. The idea first found expression in the ordinance of 1787. But it is only about fifty years since the organizations became well started. Their lands were squandered. They were opposed by those who did not believe that higher education should be provided by the state. They were opposed by the friends of the denominational colleges. But in spite of all obstacles and all opposition, they have marched on until today it is clear that they are to be henceforth the most conspicuous universities in all the states west of New York. They have become established largely in public favor. Wisconsin gives one-eighth of a mill tax to her university; California one mill; Michigan, one twentieth; Ohio, with her forty-two colleges, has just voted one-twentieth of a mill, yielding $88,550 to her university. Michigan, in addition to her regular one-twentieth mill tax, gives about $100,000 annually. Last week her House of Representatives voted $185,000 to its university with only one dissenting vote.

"A great university must have larger funds than most of the denominational colleges in the west are likely to secure. From $200,000 to $300,000 are needed. From her brilliant success, from her wise experimentation and adaptation of her work to the wants of this virile west, the University of Michigan—we may say it without boasting—has come to be looked on by the younger state universities as a leader and a guide. So long as she continues to do her work worthily, and her loyal sons, like those I see here to-night, stand by her, she may hope to retain that proud place among her sister universities of the west."

At the conclusion of President Angell's response, Mr. C. S. Darrow responded to the toast: "Education as Applied to the Sociological Problems of the Day." Then the secretary, William D. Washburn, read letters of regret from Henry Wade Rogers, Professor Harper, Thomas M. Palmer, Benjamin Butterfield, Major Wm. Warner, Thomas M. Cooley and others.

The other toasts were: "The World's Fair," Senator E. T. Noonan; "Modern Methods in Education," Col. Francis W. Parker; "The Religious Factor in Education," the Rev. Conrad Hanley; "Self Education," Geo. C. Neeley.

The nominating committee brought in its slate and the association elected for the coming year: President, Dr. Edmund Andrews; Vice-President, Charles H. Aldrich; Secretary, Samuel F. Hawley; director, to fill vacancy, Judge Wm. H. Barnum. The directors who hold over are: "I. Giles Lewis, Siras D. Roys, H. H. C. Miller, and Dr. T. J. Sullivan.

And so the Alumni of Chicago enter upon another year of their corporate existence.

The New Calendar.

The new University Calendar will be issued at the close of next week. It contains eight pages more than the Calendar for 1889-90. In general it presents the same appearance as calendars of previous years. The printing is done by the Inland Press.

The attendance in the University as compared with last year is as follows:

	1889-90	1890-91
Literary Department-----	1007	1175
Medical "-----	372	375
Law "-----	533	587
Pharmacy "-----	83	91
Homœopathic "-----	72	71
Dental "-----	103	132
	2170	2431
Deduct names counted twice-----	17	11
	2153	2420
Total-----

The attendance for 1887-8 was 1667; for 1888-89, 1882. Comparing these figures we find that the average annual rate of increase in attendance is 13%. At this rate the attendance for the next three years will be as follows:

1891-92-----	2734
1892-93-----	3089
1893-94-----	3480

There has been a marked increase of students from Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Iowa. On the other hand the number of students from Japan, Ontario, Missouri, and Colorado has fallen off. The new foreign states represented are Sweden, Ireland, Costa Rica, Syria, Bulgaria, and Turkey. The Literary and the Dental departments have had the largest growth. The Medical department has had almost no growth because the course has been lengthened to four years. The members of the Faculty number 133, 17 more than last year. The number of non-resident lecturers has been increased to nine.

The Medical, Law, Dental, and General Library contain 74,599 volumes, 14,907 unbound pamphlets, and 571 maps and charts. 184 American and European periodicals are taken. The Chemical Laboratory accommodates 380 students at one time as against 262 for last year.

The requirements for admission to the Literary department are the same as last year. The entire number of schools admitting on diploma is 82, 13 more than last year. For students entering the Medical department after July 1, 1892 the requirements have been raised. After this date candidates for the degree of M. D. will be examined in English, Arithmetic, Algebra, Plane Geometry, Physics, Botany, Zoology, Physiology, General and U. S. History and Latin.

The courses offered in the Literary department are about the same as last year. Hebrew, Assyrian, Danish and Comparative Philology have been added to the list of language courses. Several courses have been added to the departments of English and History.

The Junior Hop.

The Junior hop, which took place last night, was beyond question the most successful party ever given in Ann Arbor. The rink, which hitherto, in spite of the attempts at decoration, has been bare and barn like, was last night so completely festooned with many colored hangings that it became a very attractive hall. Two orchestras furnished perfect music during the entire time, and although the ball was opened shortly after ten o'clock, the long programme of dances was not finished until the early morning hours.

The hall was divided into booths for each of the nine fraternities giving the party, and their insignia decorated the walls at intervals. The chaperones' booth was particularly handsome and its occupants received much attention from all those present. A large number of people from Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, and Toledo were present, and about one hundred and sixty couples were in attendance.

The committeemen and the class that they represented may well be complimented on the success of '92's junior party.

The committee having the preparations in charge was composed of the following: G. G. Prentis, general chairman; W. M. Johnstone, G. M. Wisner, G. J. Bunday, H. T. Smith, committee on invitation; A. D. Rathbone, H. C. Bulkley, H. O. Statler, W. C. Tichenor, W. B. Larrabee, D. R. Anthony, Jr., H. E. Candler, committee on arrangements; J. Van Inwagen, C. C. Warren, D. C. Morgan, D. W. McMorran, C. C. Warden, reception committee.

The chaperones were Mrs. J. B. Angell, Mrs. James Van Inwagen, of Chicago, Mrs. J. C. Rolfe, Mrs. A. E. Warden, Mrs. J. H. Wade, Mrs. Maxwell, of Cincinnati, Mrs. Geo. H. Prentis, of Detroit.

The following is a list of those attending from out the city:

C. COMMITTEE.

Amherst will open her new athletic field on May 6.

The law and medical students at Yale have formed a base ball league.

Ten men are trying for pitcher's position on the Yale team. As yet there is no hope of having an equal to Stagg.—Ex.

Arthur Clarke, catcher and all-round player of the New York base ball club, has entered the junior class of the Columbia law school.

The Brown base-ball association has voted almost unanimously against joining a league with Trinity and Wesleyan—in fact, against joining any league whatever.—Ex.

Lehigh, since she has thirty candidates for the base ball nine, is anxious to form a league which will include Lehigh, Lafayette, Columbia and University of Pennsylvania.—Ex.

The students of Cornell have adopted a college button. It is square, made of silver and gold plated.

Boston Symphony Concert.

The next concert in the Choral Union Series will be given by the Boston Symphony Orchestra May 5. The success of this orchestra, phenomenal indeed last year, has been unprecedented this year. The concerts given in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington have been series of enthusiastic ovations for the orchestra and its wonderful leader, Mr. Arthur Nikisch. The Brooklyn Philharmonic Society, which was and is simply a branch of the New York organization of the same name, has in the removal of Theo. Thomas to Chicago, lost its conductor, and the Board of Directors, instead of securing a new conductor, have engaged the Boston Symphony Orchestra to give the entire series. The series of concerts to be given in New York by this orchestra has already been practically assured financially by the advance sale of tickets, and the number of concerts will be materially increased. In Baltimore the wonderful interest taken in their concerts leads a prominent newspaper to urge the necessity of a larger hall. Wherever they have played, standing room even has been at a premium.

We are confident that all who heard the concert last May are looking forward to this next concert with profound satisfaction for they know that the concert will be well worth the price of an associate member ticket itself. It is not too much to say that if the Choral Union can give such a series of magnificent concerts on a sale of less than 1,000 tickets that a sale of 2,000 tickets (which should be sold next year) would insure such a series as would be far in advance of anything ever dreamed of by a university organization. Plans are maturing by which it will be possible in the event of such a number being sold, to give three symphony concerts (including the Boston Symphony Orchestra) two concerts by chorus and orchestra, and three miscellaneous concerts or eight first-class concerts for $2.00. This is what the Choral Union hopes to do and what it will do if the students and citizens respond as they should. The facts developed at the annual meeting of the Choral Union are all significant and point to a speedy realization of the hope so often expressed that Ann Arbor may become a musical center. We will give the programme of the symphony concert in our next issue.

The Denver alumni banqueted, Thursday night,
April 2.

Prof. Hinsdale did not meet his classes on Thursday and Friday.

The Amherst Glee Club contains sixteen members, the Banjo Club, nine members.

The beginning class in Italian has begun the reading of a comedy entitled "Un Curioso Accidente."

Prof. C. M. Gayley has been recently elected vice president of the California State Teachers' Association.

A reception to students of the University and to members of Hobart Guild was given on Thursday night at the rectory of St. Andrew's church, by the Rev. H. Tatlock.

Many members of the classes of '89 and '90 have been in Ann Arbor during the past week. The spring recess in most schools in this and adjoining states, comes two weeks earlier than does that of the University.

After a close and exciting contest the senior medics finally succeeded in electing a president last Wednesday. The final ballot resulted 48 to 41 in favor of Mr. G. L. Kiefer, of Detroit. There is the usual amount of groundless talk about unfair means being used, it being hard to take defeat gracefully.

Last Tuesday evening the officers of the Choral Union made their annual report and new officers were elected. The finances of the organization are in good condition. Treasurer Wines reported that $2,737 had been received for the sale of tickets. Of this sum, $1,877 was still in the treasury. 916 season tickets were sold. The old officers were re-elected. Prof. de Pont is president; Mr. Hopkins, secretary; Mr. Wines, treasurer; and Mr. Dorrance, librarian.

Miss Elizabeth Faulkener, teacher of Latin and Greek in the Oak Park, Ill. high school, has been visiting friends in the University for the past week.

The annual University Calendar will be out Wednesday. 14,000 copies will be printed. The last year's supply was exhausted some time ago.

Among the college glee clubs that are making their tours in the spring this year are Amherst, Cornell, University of Wisconsin, Beloit college, and the U. of M.

Rush Medical College, of Chicago, graduated a class of 204 last week. Beginning with this year the course requires four years, the sessions are six months in length.

There will be a regular meeting of the Oratorical Association next Tuesday evening, April 7, at 7:30 o'clock sharp, in Room 24, main building, for the election of officers.

At the Chicago alumni banquet last Tuesday evening, $500 was voted by the association for the Gym. fund, and $700 more was subscribed. It is expected that the Chicago subscription list will reach the $2,000 mark within a week.

John P. Adams, of Turner Junction, Ill., was awarded first prize in the preliminary contest of the Northern Oratorical League held at Evanston, last Friday evening. He will represent the Northwestern University in the inter-collegiate contest to be held here May 8.

Through the kindness of the Hon. Carroll D. Wright, Prof. Adams was able to give each member of the class in Unsettled Questions, a copy of the "Fourth Annual Report of the Interstate Commerce Commission," and the "Report on Statistics of Railways," by the same commission.

The Safety bicycle offered by Wagner & Co. for the nearest guess on the number of beans in the glass jar, which has been in a State street show window since last December, was won by S. M. Dick, graduate student. Mr. Dick's guess was but three out of the way, it was 41,524, while the correct number was 41,527.

The Graphic of Chicago contains, in its last issue, a four page illustrated article on the University. The cuts are most of them good. The law building pictured is the old one with the contemplated addition. The first page of the paper is adorned by a full page cut of Pres. Angell, a short sketch of his life is added to the article.

C. J. Scroggs, lit '84, an old ARGONAUT editor, graduated at the Cincinnati law school in 1886, and has since been a member of the firm of Scroggs and Scroggs, Bucyrus, Ohio.

W. F. Hubbard completed his college work and left last Monday for Washington where he enters upon the duties of private secretary to the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

Frank A. Ainsworth, managing editor of the ARGONAUT during the first semester of 1885-6, died at his home in Sheldon, Iowa, on March 20, 1891, aged 27 years. He graduated from the Ann Arbor High School in 1882, and from the University in 1886. He studied law at his old home, being admitted to the bar in 1889, and then removed to Sheldon where he engaged in the practice of his profession with success.

Arthur Friedheim, the famous European pianist made his debut in this country at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, on the evening of March 31, in conjunction with the Thomas Orchestra.

Ellen Terry is to appear at the St. James Theatre, London, in "The Tenant of Evoncourt," a new play by Alfred Austin.

Sullivan's new opera, "Ivanhoe," is to be sung in Berlin. The London critics praise it highly, but question whether it will live as a typical work of the present era of creative music.

The famous English baritone, Charles Santley, who sings in "Christophorus," in Detroit April 10, will appear in but twenty concerts in this country, and is booked to sing in the Handel Festival in London, in June, together with Mme. Albani and Edward Lloyd.

The Cornell Glee and Banjo Clubs gave a very clever entertainment at the opera house last Thursday evening. The banjo playing and many of the short songs were especially good. While the remainder of the program was good, it was not above the usual standard. Altogether the concert was very enjoyable and was well received by the large audience present.

The Wellesley Prelude requested the students to give their views as to the advisability of opening the college library on Sunday. Many of them complied with the request and their opinions have been published. It was found to be the universal desire to have the library open on Sunday, because that is the day when students have the most time for outside reading.—Ex.

L'ENVOR.

"Go, pretty Rose, and to her tell
All I would say, could I but see
The slender form I know so well,
The roguish eyes that laughed at me.

"And when your fragrance fills the room,
Tell her of all I hope and fear.
With every breath of sweet perfume,
Whisper my greetings in her ear.

"But, Roses, stay, there is one thing
You must not mention. Don't forget!
(For it might be embarrassing)
And that is—You're not paid for yet!"

—Yale Record.

REASON ENOUGH.

"I wonder how these letters here,
Became so damp and wet,"
"What are they, Jack?" "Oh, mostly bills
I haven't paid as yet."

"The answer's plain, I guess, old man,"
Said Fred, with sudden wit,
"Because there's so much due on them,
Must be the cause of it."

—Yale Record.

LITERARY NOTES.

One of the most famous pictures in the world, the "Mona Tesa of Leonardo da Vinci" has been engraved for the frontispiece of the April Century.

In the California series, Mr. Julius H. Pratt gives a graphic description of the emigration to California in '49 by way of Panama. There is also a paper of great historic value by the late General J. C. Fremont on his own part in the "Conquest of California."

Dr. John A. Wyeth, an ex-Confederate soldier describes life in the Northern war prison, under the title of "Cold Cheer at Camp Morton." In this number The Century's Mountain Climbing series, appropriate to the summer season, is begun, with papers on two separate expeditions to Mount St. Elias, one expedition being that of Lieutenant Schwatka, and the other that of the National Geographical Society and the U. S. Geological Survey. A number of illustrations accompany these papers of mountain climbing in America. The fiction of the number is very diversified, including a new instalment of Dr. Eggleston's "Faith Doctor"; a story "There were Ninety and Nine" by Richard Harding Davis; the conclusion of Hopkinson Smith's "Colonel Carter of Carterville"; a timely and novel story by Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton entitled "Herr von Striempell's Experiment"; and "A Race Romance" by Maurice Thompson, the last of a series of three short stories, "with a purpose," by this well-known writer.

AMUSEMENTS.

A. M. Wittenburg, manager of the Cornell Glee Club, speaking of the Royal Edinburgh Concert Co., which appears at the opera house April 8, said: "This same company travelled through the East last fall, I heard them at Elmira and I tell you they are out of sight." Everyone speaks of this company of Scotch artists in terms of greatest praise. They have already given an entertainment for the Princeton students, and so great was the enthusiasm that they are booked for a return engagement there the latter part of April. Their selections embrace the best known Scotch songs, and their members are the choice and master spirits of Scotch minstrelsy.

A handsome and talented young actress, Miss Olive L. Oliver, once well known in society circles in Ann Arbor, plays the leading part of "Nan" in Wm. De Shetley's melo-drama "Alone in London" to be produced at the opera house Friday evening, April 10.

The most notable entertainment given at the opera house since the Booth & Barrett combination four years ago, will be seen there Tuesday evening, April 14, when Stuart Robson will play Bertie, The Lamb, in Bronson Howard's great comedy, "The Henrietta." Mr. Robson has for years been before the public and many remember with pleasure the combination of Robson & Crane. Edwin Booth, John Wilkes Booth, and Stuart Robson were playmates and schoolmates in their boyhood, and many are the stories told of the theatrical aspirations of these juveniles. Everywhere this season reserved seats have been entirely sold in less than three days at $2.00 per ticket. The management here, however, have succeeded in obtaining a reduction in price, and reserved seats will be $1.50. The sale will commence Friday, April 10.
